American Legion Promotes New 26 Bed Local Hospital

The American Legion has proposed the construction of a 26-bed new hospital for Bay St. Louis and named a committee to promote the project.

John D. Rutherford Jr. was selected as chairman of the committee. Other members, who will serve are Kenneth Whitfield, Andy J. Becker, Joseph H. Benvenutti, Warren J. Buehler, Laurent Dickson, Dr. H. A. Eldredge, Russell J. Elliott, Lucien W. Kidd and Gordon C. Romanoff.

The general consensus expressed at the meeting held at the Legion home was that there is a critical medical situation in Bay St. Louis and that it is more or less a continuing condition.

The majority of those present felt that the construction of a modern hospital would attract new doctors to the community and thereby permanently relieve the present shortage of medical doctors in Bay St. Louis.

Sydney Bourgeois, commander of the Legion, said, "The Legion is in no way criticizing the present Emergency Hospital, its staff or directors. We feel that with more room and better facilities that this same group can do an even better job."

After the Legion meeting was adjourned the committee met and discussed the possibility of certain plans. No formal report has been issued on the business taken up at the meeting.

Chairman Rutherford announced, "The committee has developed a definite plan which will be released next week."

Judges appointed for the "Rodeo" are: General Louis F. Guerre, W. Flanagan and Judge Nelius Rhodes.

Chairman Price announced that the "Junior Fishing Rodeo" would again be held on the Saturday before Labor Day. Time for the "Rodeo" will be from 8:00 A. M. to 5:00 P. M. on September 4, 1954.

Book Review

Is Success

In spite of inclement weather the book review at the Episcopal Parish House was a success. About fifty people attended and heard Mrs. Janet Wallace Yancy's reading of the newest best seller by Daphne de Maurier, "Mary Anne."

Ted Perry Honored At Week Of Fetes

Ted Perry, the Knights of Columbus-sponsored Boy Who Made Good at Boys' Nation this past week in Washington, was honored at a series of events in the Bay this week, upon his return.

The youth, who was elected president of Boys' Nation, following a steady upward climb through the list of achievements local boys can earn in school and organizations, was given two testimonial dinners and a rousing welcome by the citizens of the community.

"To say that young Perry was well received would be putting it mildly," said the American Legion announcement at its meeting of this week.

"It appeared that each member felt as if Perry was his own son for each acted as a proud father."

The Legion presented Perry with a resolution expressing its pride and appreciation. A copy of the resolution will be framed and kept at the Legion Home.

And Monday night the youth was given a banquet by the Knights of Columbus here, with Brother Linus of St. Stanislaus and Grand Knight George Heitzmann leading the ceremonies.

Earlier a group of representatives from various city organizations met Perry at the plane, when he arrived in New Orleans last Friday. A parade in his honor followed Saturday, and a luncheon attended by many citizens was given on Monday.

Yacht Club Set For Big Weekend

The Bay-Waveland Yacht Club was primed for a weekend of colorful events this week, as preparations were completed for the annual Shipwreck Dance and a fair and beauty contest.

The dance, which is expected to draw the usual heavy attendance from all parts of the Coast and New Orleans, is a costume affair—members coming dressed as they might be following a shipwreck.

The fair and beauty contest is scheduled for Sunday. It is under the direction of Mrs. Ben H. Bell, Club Manager, Bernard Farrelly, announced this week that the beauty contest is open to members of the club or members' daughters only. The Lakeshore Civic Hall burned to the ground early Sunday morning when fire of an undetermined origin broke out following the Saturday night dance.

By this time the blaze was out of control and it was impossible to save any of the contents of the building.

The property was not insured. The loss is estimated at about $4000.

GONE YONDER TO WASHINGTON—That's what Carroll Gartin, senatorial candidate told the crowd in front of the courthouse as he pointed out into space.

"PRETTY BOY" CARROLL GARTIN MAKES BID FOR HANCOCK VOTES

The Calhoun County Playboys struck up a tune, a la Jimmy Davis. Standing in the background was a middle age, dark haired man, who looked like a movie star.

But then the music stopped. Representative Walter J. Phillips took over the mike. He spoke casually and at length about the well dressed, good looking man in the shadows, waiting for an entrance.

With a round of applause from the estimated 150 people present, Carroll Gartin strolled to the microphone.

A candidate for the United States Senate. The present Lieutenant Governor of this state. The former mayor of the city of Laurel.

A graduate of the University of Mississippi Law School. A boy who had worked his way through college. A servant of the people.

This is politician Carroll Gartin. He openly expressed his views about the issues in this campaign and also about his opponent, James Eastland.

He said, "I want to see the social security increased and extended. Old age benefits are not much of a benefit with the rising cost of living. I would like to introduce to the legislature a plan to use a per capita grant, Mississippi is a poor state. It does not have as much money as the states of a higher level. Therefore I would like to see the federal government put up money for all states for every old person in the United States. This way the state could match that money and it would keep pace with the rising costs."

He continued, gesturing with his hands to emphasize each phrase and "point."

"I served in the Army for five years. After I received my discharge I came home and found out I had the benefits of the G. I. Bill. I could buy a house or go to school with the government," said. But I never felt like the United States owed me anything. But I want to tell you I am interested in one set of veterans. And that is the disabled veterans. The boys that were injured on the battle fields. I promised them that as long as I am in the United States Senate they will always have an adequate compensation. I would like to see a veterans affairs committee organized in the Senate.

"The next thing I am going to talk about has caused me to be kidded by the Jackson papers. I would like to see a law passed to void out lewd and indecent literature. This is probably one of the greatest problems facing our moral standards today.

"Another thing that we lack in this country now is a well defined foreign policy. If someone would ask me what our policy was I couldn't answer them, because I do not know. There is a need for a strong and definite foreign policy. I would like to see a bipartisan policy adopted by this country. The young men of today cannot make any plans for the future. We are in a constant state of cold nerves. A cold war. My opponent favors trade with Russia because he fears a depression without it. I am absolutely positively against trade with Russia."

He continued, gesturing with his hands to emphasize each phrase and "point."

An outbreak of a serious disease—which can kill—has hit Hancock County.

The disease is Anthrax, get it from infected grass.

It can be contracted by a domestic animal. And what it can be fatal to humans handling the animals.

There is no great alarm, health authorities explained. Cattle owners should not touch dead animals, but instead should call qualified personnel. People not normally handling these animals are in no danger.

Milk is safe because it is pasteurized.

But there is considerable cause for alarm as far as the cattle are concerned.

Howard Simmons, Hancock County agent, said, "Hancock County is in the midst of an outbreak of Anthrax, the most serious disease that cattle, sheep and other grazing animals can have. It is an infectious disease which also attacks horses, goats and hogs."

"One of the things that makes this outbreak so serious is that man is highly susceptible to the infection through contact with the diseased animals. It may be transmitted by the hair, hides, or by objects such as soil, dust, which have become contaminated."

"In animals it is an epidemic disease and often wipes out entire herds. It is very difficult to kill the germ either by drying or boiling. Domestic animals have been known to acquire anthrax by grazing above spots where animals dying of the disease had been buried three years before."

"The germ multiplies rapidly, especially in the blood, where it produces the poisonous substance causing death. The germs are commonly taken in with food or water though they may gain entrance to the system through wounds. When in the form of spores they resist heat, cold and most disinfectants, and may live in the soil for years. It is found that lowlands, especially those having much soil, are more likely to contract anthrax than those in different pastures. Fields containing stagnant pools are especially infectious."

"The disease is often fatal; and when it is suspected, a physician should be consulted at once. Human beings have no natural immunity; and anti-anthrax serum for human immunization is only partially effective. Treatment with arsenicals, sulfonamides, and penicillin has been somewhat successful."

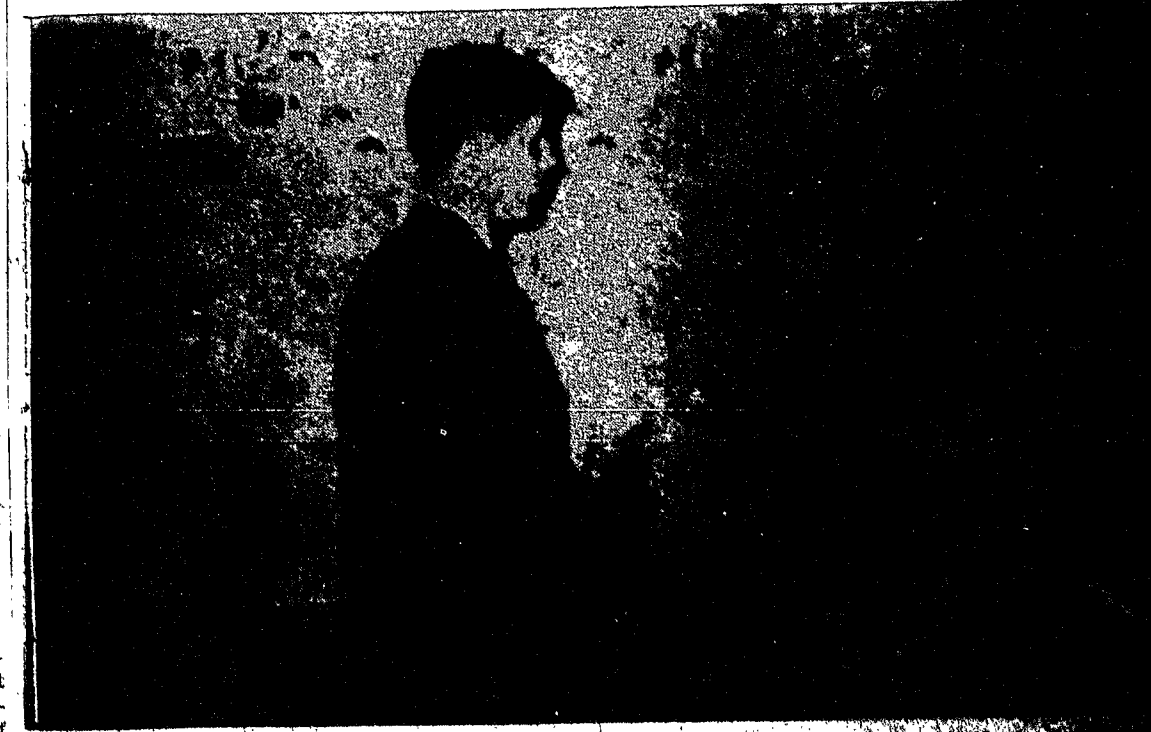

Dr. C. M. Shipp, county health medical officer, described the disease as "a smoldering blood infection."

He said that he had suspected existence of the disease for some time in Hancock County and, in co-operation with Mr. Simmons, had ordered a number of tests sent to laboratories.

Yesterday the official report came back that Hancock County cattle do have anthrax.

"The danger is with direct contact," Dr. Shipp said. Johnson Shaw, president of the county board of supervisors, said the board already has spent some money burying and burning infected cattle.

"But we don't have the funds to do much more right now," Mr. Shaw said.

Sportsweek

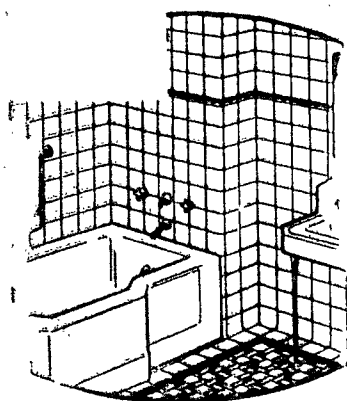

By GREGORY FAVRE

St. Louis is the home of a boy who plays football in the rough and tumble fashion. A boy who takes no quarter and gives none.

This young man of the gridiron is Henry Capdepon. A graduate of St. Stanislaus, Henry now presents his pluck in talent at Pearl River Junior College.

There is a great deal of difference in two games. That is college ball and high school ball, Henry said. "Junior college football is a lot rougher and the competition and opposition is better."

As he had thought a while about the past season Henry came up with this answer to the question "What was your greatest thrill this past year?" "The thing that gave me the greatest thrill of all last year was the Hinds game."

Up until the game I was alternating with another center. But on the first play that Hinds had the ball I was playing right linebacker. The play went to the left side and I moved over and made the tackle by myself. Then a couple of plays later I intercepted a pass. The next time that Hinds had the ball I recovered a fumble. From that game on Coach played me on the first string."

Henry spoke of the Copiah-Lincoln game. He stated that this was the funniest experience he had last year. "With about three seconds left in the game a gang of their players jumped another boy and me. Well then the whole team started to fight. The band began to fight. Parents were hitting players on top of the heads with chairs. It was a grand riot."

Henry was married last November 8 to Charlotte Russ of Picayune. Charlotte and Henry's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Capdepon are his "biggest and most loyal fans. His mother, and father went to every game last year except one. In a couple of weeks Henry will be back in the old grind. Pre-season practice begins then. He graduates from the junior college this year. He has hopes of getting a scholarship from a senior college."

Everybody has an opinion of his coach. And Henry is no exception. "I think Coach Dobie Holden is quite a coach. He is a psychology teacher in school and he used it on the ball team. He likes a lot of spirit and hustle like all coaches. He has a great mind for defensive plays. He will scout a team for two weeks before we play them."

Then the week the game is scheduled he gets together with the linebacks and quarterback and maps out some defense against the team. He will work on those defenses until the gets one that will stop the opposite plays."

"The first time I realized the difference in playing in college and high school was the first scrimmage we had. You can feel the difference as well as experience it."

Henry, who is the lightest center in all the junior colleges in Mississippi has been the victim of many jokes about this fact. He said, "All the teams we play kid me about being so small. They laugh at me but that laugh leaves them after the first quarter. We were always ahead at this point in the game."

Henry commented on the extra work he had to apply to keep up with his studies. "We have practice every evening during the season from 3:15 until 7:00. Three times a week we have a skull practice at night. That means that the football, players have to hus-

Yep! we had two tides on Tuesday - coming in and going out - which is bad for most any kind of fishing. Although fish were biting on Friday and Saturday most everywhere, but Sunday was a different story, with the wind changing to the south.

Bill O'Neil who does most of his fishing at Bayou Caddy, caught 36 nice specks Saturday just off the mouth of the bayou. Bill knows how to get 'em."

The shrimp boil at Pass Christian Isles Golf Club Saturday night brought out a large crowd. Everyone enjoyed a grand evening. Space is too small to list all attending but we know that Dr. and Mrs. J. Alex Barger, Dr. and Mrs. Sam C. Cohen of Henderson Point and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Jeffcoat of the Pass were most gracious in helping others enjoy themselves. The men folks who are ardent fishermen, spent the evening talking about the fishing they expect to do shortly after a busy summer.

Watson Johns who has his son Junior, home again have been fishing together regularly. Sure they have been catching them!

Regarding sailing, the fishing boys are way behind in that sport says Eddie Heath, Chairman of the House Committee. After next week the sailing will be over and the fish had better look out - they will be after them.

Results of theN sailing races of last weekend at the Bay-Wave-land Yacht Club verified the old saying, "Form will Tell," which was proven by C. C. McDonald, Jr., who was skipping the sorriest boat but finished first. Eddie Heath also won Sunday while Leo Seal, Jr., finished with a bang up 2nd and 3rd respectively. Better learn to get out from under, when pocketed, Leo!

Jack Gordon just managed to get into the Lipton Cup competition when he won the needed sail boat race, Sunday. Congratulations, Jack.

Carey Spence, vice-president of Pass Christian Isles Golf Course says he will be glad when he can have a little time off - he has hardly given his new golf clubs a good work out.

George Summers the faithful skipper of the "Theresa Mae" shrimp boat at Bayou Caddy fishing camp and Alton Stiffel had two guests on board Sunday. They demonstrated how to crawl for shrimp and brought in a big haul.

Nice catches of speckles were made at Three Oaks, Half Moon and at the mouth of Jordan River. Green trout have been rather slow probably due to the bad weather of the past two weeks, however some were caught up Jordan River with live bait.

If the party who left his tackle and tool box at the north end of the seawall will see Eddie Hoelzel at Eddie's fishing camp he has it for safe keeping.

The boys who accompanied Carroll Gartin on his speaking tour here Saturday night enjoyed some fishing at Bayou Caddy Sunday. One of the Hillbilly Band members said, "Music has charms, but not with the fish. He didn't do so hot."

The Senatorial Race

On the basis of experience as a mayor and a lieutenant governor, Carroll Garlin is seeking to become U. S. Senator from Mississippi. Those are hardly adequate recommendations. Your mayor is an administrative officer, and hardly attains the type of legislative experience necessary to serve properly as senator.

And as for the exalted post of lieutenant governor, the late Will Rogers described the lieutenant governor's duties this way: "He's the guy who gets up every morning and asks: 'Is the governor any worse?'"

On the other hand, Jim Eastland has considerable experience in the senate. And Washington is no place for a tyro. As a matter of fact, a man's first or two terms are almost all waste because he's spending them simply learning the ropes.

Furthermore, committee assignments are based on seniority. And our government is run by committees. The actual sessions of the House and Senate are mostly window dressing. The bills are hammered into shape and, the policy is formed, in the committee rooms.

Jim Eastland's seniority enables him to wield weight which a new man could not match for a dozen or more years; and perhaps not then.

Thus, on the basis of choosing a tried, experienced man over an untested one, we support Jim Eastland for the United States Senate.

Cheers To Ted

Ted Perry, a 17-year-old St. Stanislaus schoolboy, has brought to Bay St. Louis an honor which many a mature man might envy. First, he was elected head of the American Legion's Boys' State. That, indeed, was honor enough.

But then he went to the top, and became the first Southerner elected president of the Boys' Nation in Washington. He met President Eisenhower, J. Edgar Hoover, and many another illustrious names.

And through it all—including the warm welcome tendered him upon his return to Bay St. Louis—he remained a quiet and unassuming boy.

This is a proud moment for Bay St. Louis, and we heartily commend its good-will ambassador for his splendid success.

Well?

A year ago the new Bay St. Louis bridge was open—to the tune of 25 cents per ride. This is a tough bite for regular travelers, especially commuters.

At the time the bridge was dedicated, the word was that some sort of reduction might be arranged for commuters after a year.

The year is up.
How about the reduction?

SAFETY

Timber National Farm Safety Week. It is a good time to take stock of the safety hazards on your farm. Here are some checking points:

Fire hazards. Check wiring of house and farm buildings; remove sawdust and shavings; remove sawdust from storage rooms; check grounding of electrical appliances; make sure hay is thoroughly cured before storing.

Fallen limbs. Check all stairways, steps and ladders are in good repair. Have passageways, steps and stairs free from obstructions.

General. Keep bulls and other livestock in a safe place. When operating the farm tractor, take it easy and observe all safety rules. Have a place for all tools and keep all tools in their proper place.

Remember the slogan for National Farm Safety Week: "Farm to Live, but Live to Farm."

FORESTRY

Planned cutting pays off in higher timber profits. It is an essential part of good timber management.

Right now is a good time to cut these trees that have no present or future cash sale value. You can use them for fuel, fence posts and other farm needs.

Large trees that are crooked or diseased may have a cash value now, but won't have any later on. These be cut while they are worth something.

Thin thick stands now if the trees are large enough to sell. Crowded stands of pine and valuable hardwoods need thinning to allow more room for rapid growth. First cut the diseased, defective, deformed and other inferior trees. Then if the stand is too crowded, thin until tree tops stand alone with no overlapping.

COTTON INSECTS

Migration time for the boll weevil is right at hand. If not controlled at this time, weevils can cause heavy damage. So be prepared to hit Mr. Boll Weevil before he hits your cotton crop.

In heavy migrations increase the pounds of dust by one-third and increase the spray concentration by using one-third less water. Pollen every four days if needed.

Make infestation counts twice a week. Protect top bolls until they are at least four weeks old.

For accurate poisoning instructions, including rates of application, time of application and insecticides to use, see your county agent and get a free copy of Extension Publication 216, "Cotton insect controls for 1954."

HOME GARDENING

Keep insects out of the home garden. Follow a regular dusting or spraying schedule. Clean off all non-poisoning rows and "I don't do anything about the killing," she exclaims as you draw her away from the train. In her apparent nervousness, she drops her purse and as you pick it up you feel a familiar bulk inside. Opening the purse, you find a gun.

"I'm sure you know plenty about it," you say as you conduct her to your car for the trip to headquarters.

Economic Energizer

We make money, spend it and save it, but there is probably more loose thinking on that subject than any other. It has been said and with some truth that very few people even know what money really is.

It has been defined as a medium of exchange and it is used as a standard of value in our economy, but it also serves as a storehouse of potential energy. In performing that function it is a kind of storage battery in that it stores up energy expended today and used in the future.

All goods produced and services rendered require some kind of energy—electric energy, heat energy or human energy. And human energy is paid for in money in the form of wages. When this money is spent it becomes a medium of exchange. But if this money is put away or saved in a bank it becomes stored up human energy to be used when needed.

That is why it is so important for money to be stable. If money fluctuates in value or is cheapened by government with primed inflation it loses its purchasing power, and one's bank savings, government bonds and life insurance policies are depreciated and one's stored up energy is lost. A GOVERNMENT COULD PROVIDE NO SECURITY FOR A PEOPLE'S FUTURE MORE EFFECTIVE THAN TO MAINTAIN A STABILIZED CURRENCY. Our 52-cent dollar should be a constant reminder that cheap money is unsound and that a sound currency is an economic energizer.

Some people say, "What good are all those billions in gold buried at Fort Knox?" Well, it's a big pile of stored up human energy and may be this nation's single best investment for the future.

As a matter of fact we would be much better off if we were back on the gold standard. When we went off it was only a form of relief. Surely, if we keep deteriorating our money, inflating our currency and cheapening its purchasing power, our economy could go through the wringer.

And we can each do our part to prevail upon those in political power to keep our economy "as sound as the dollar," a stable standard of value. And whatever kind of money we may have, gold, silver or paper, it is well to store some of it away in the form of surplus energy to use when we most need it.

COLMER ANNOUNCES FOR REELECTION

Congressman Wm. M. Colmer today announces his candidacy for re-election, through the columns of this paper, to the office of Representative in the American Congress. In a brief statement he said:

TO THE SOVEREIGN VOTERS OF THE SIXTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT OF MISSISSIPPI:

Having qualified as a candidate for re-election some sixty days ago and now that the business of the 83rd Congress is mostly behind us, I take this opportunity to make formal announcement of my candidacy for re-election as your Representative in the American Congress.

When I made my first race for this high office, I made only one promise: to represent my District, my State and my Nation to the very best of my ability, placing the welfare of all of the people above self and party. I have conscientiously endeavored to keep that pledge.

While I believe in party government and have always voted the Democratic ticket, one of the first things I learned in Washington was that there are two kinds of Democrats - those, mostly Southern Democrats, who believe in the Jeffersonian theory that people are best governed who are least governed, and the left-wing or ultra-liberal Democrats, who cater to the select few of the minorities, the racial groups, and the big party bosses who hold the balance of power in many northern districts. I have fought for the things you believe in. I have fought against the FEPC, socialized medicine, non-segregated schools and housing, the centralization of power in Washington, deficit spending and the bank rupturing of our Nation with foreign aid. In short, I am a Mississippi Democrat and proud to bear that label.

That philosophy and the further fact that I am a ranking member of the Rules Committee, which has stood as the bulwark against the passage of radical legislation such as the FEPC, and the additional fact that my Southern colleagues paid me the distinct honor of naming me as their leader in the fight against bills aimed at our Southern way of life have pointed me out at a target by the national leaders of these ultra-liberal groups in Washington. Beginning last year this opposition began coming the District in an effort to bring out a minimum of five opponents with the hope of forcing a second primary. Many splendid men of real ability and a desire to serve as your Congressman turned a deaf ear.

Because you have seen fit to keep me as your representative in the National Congress, I have been advanced into key positions and have taken advantage of the opportunity to familiarize myself with the momentous problems which confront our country - both foreign and domestic. With this background I believe I am a more seasoned and matured Congressman and better qualified to represent you than ever before.

Therefore upon my record and with a grateful heart for your past suffering, with no desire for self-aggrandizement, but with a fervent hope that during the next two years I can contribute something to the perpetuation of a free America, I humbly submit myself for re-election as your Congressman in the August 24th Primary.

BILL COLMER

A LEADER IN CONGRESS

South Mississippi's Congressman Colmer is now the dean of the Mississippi Delegation. He is ranking member of the House Rules Committee, through which all important legislation must funnel before it can be considered on the House floor. As such, he has been responsible for bringing to the floor of the House much beneficial legislation affecting the farmer, the laborer, the veteran, the student, and the national defense.

He is the champion leader of the House of Representatives and more than one hundred Southern Congressmen who have followed his lead.

The South. This is a position similar to the one held by Georgia's Rufus D. Smith.

Colmer has been a member of the House of Representatives since 1933. He has served in the House of Representatives for 21 years.

Policy and Planning, which as early as 1945 called the turn on Russia's plan to conquer the world through the strategy of the cold war.

He is the senior member of the National Forest Reservation Commission, serving with three members of the President's cabinet, two Senators and one other House member.

He is the co-sponsor with Senator John McClellan of Arkansas of legislation to set up a joint committee on the budget in the House and Senate to provide the machinery for the Congress to recapitulate the purse strings of the Nation from the bureaucrats.

SERVANT OF THE PEOPLE

But legislation is only one part of a Congressman's job. The Federal Government at one time or another touches the lives of everybody nowadays and people in all walks of life turn to their Government for guidance and help with their personal problems. Although the South Mississippi Congressman has received and answered close to one-half million appeals from the people of South Mississippi during the tenure of office, he is never too busy to lend a helping hand to the most humble constituent. In fact, he has achieved an enviable reputation for prompt and personal attention to the thousands of letters, wires and personal calls which come to him.

This veteran South Mississippi representative has reached his present position as one of the House's top ranking Congressmen through hard work and determination. Bill Colmer started work in a saw mill at the tender age of nine. He worked his way through Gulfport High School by serving as janitor. He earned his way through Millsaps College.

With no money but great determination to become a lawyer, Colmer purchased a set of books, and, while serving as Principal of Lumberton High School, he read law at night. He was admitted to the bar at Purvis after three years of such study.

During World War I he enlisted in the Army and rose from Private to Regimental Sergeant Major. He hung out his shingle at Pascagoula upon being discharged. Shortly thereafter he was elected to the office of County Attorney of Jackson County. He was subsequently re-elected and then promoted to District Attorney. After five years in that office he was elected to Congress in the Sixth District which position he now holds.

The League of Women Voters with other civic organizations co-operating is sponsoring a political symposium for Tuesday, August 10, at the Pass City Hall at which U. S. Senator James Eastland and Lieut. Governor Carroll Gartin or their representatives will speak on their candidacy for the U. S. Senate.

This meeting will begin at 8:00 p. m. and is reported to be an attraction for Pass voters who rarely are given an opportunity to meet personally candidates in national political races. Everyone has been urged to attend.

Set for August 10, 10:30 a. m. is the dedication of Pine Hills, a former resort hotel at the northern extremity of Bay St. Louis, a Catholic major seminary by Valerio Cardinal Valeri of Rome, who is in charge of religious orders. The Oblates of Mary Immaculate renovated the vacant five-story building themselves for use in training brothers into priesthood.

The Lions Club members at their regular meeting last Thursday night began preparations to participate in the Annual Park Fair and Bazaar set for August 7 and 8, this coming Saturday and Sunday.

As in the past, the members will be responsible for the procurement and the dispensing of all the beverages at the affair. President J. E. Necaise was assured the cooperation of virtually everyone present at the meeting in seeing that this responsibility be carried out by members working in relays as teams in the beverage booths.

A record crowd is expected at the annual festivities.

Hancock County Baseball Association's All-Star team honored three Pass Christian Scouts with positions on the official line-up. The boys were Gerald Scoper, second baseman; J. C. Necaise, pitcher; David Mangum, utility infielder. Frank Kemp, in charge of the Pass Sea Scout activities, also was honored by being chosen as one of the team managers. The All-Stars' schedule of games include playing similar teams from

New Orleans, Mobile, Pascagoula, Picayune and other nearby cities.

The Bernard L. Knost Trophy will be awarded at the all-girls Skipperette Race sponsored by the Gulfcoast Yachting Association at the Pass Yacht Club, August 14 and 15. Clubs from New Orleans to St. Petersburg, Fla., are competing.

The Pass Yacht Club Skipperettes are chosen by sailing a Round Robin. The four fastest girl sailors out of a series of six races will become the team representing the Pass in the Skipperette Races. One more race is to be held next Saturday before the Pass Yacht crew can be chosen.

Completion of the Lipton Junior Regatta held last month at St. Petersburg, Fla., brought honors to Hilmyer and Warren Adam, Jr., who placed first in both Sunday morning and afternoon races.

Two Pass representatives, who included Carl Terrell, won second place in the regatta for the Pass Yacht Club.

Elizabeth Brookfield Burke, concert harpist, will present her musical program to the Gulf Coast Theatre of Arts at Mid-Orleans, Pass Christian, next Sunday afternoon. The group postponed its regular meeting last Sunday and will meet as scheduled under the program direction of Dr. Laurence Oden.

Father J. P. McGlade, pastor of St. Pauls Church in the Pass, officiated at the blessing of the Pass Christian fleet of oyster and shrimp boats last Sunday afternoon at 3:00 p. m. in the Pass Harbor.

Boat owners, under the direction of Lamar Easterling, president and Fred Casteln, secretary of the Pass Oystermen and Shrimpers Association, took their boats through the harbor for the ceremony, traditionally separate from the massing of the coast fleet at Biloxi festival.

Modern Etiquette

Q. What is the correct way to answer an invitation to a wedding reception?

A. On the first page of note paper, and although it is written by hand, the spelling of the words should be the same as though they were engraved. Also since the invitation was written in the third person, your reply should also be written in the third person.

Q. When one is traveling on a train and wishes to leave one's seat for a few minutes, in what manner can it be shown that the seat is reserved?

A. A coat or bag placed on the seat is sufficient.

Q. Should a man use his right or his left hand when tipping his hat to a woman?

A. Either hand, whichever is the more convenient at the time.

Q. When at the table and someone asks you a question while you have food in your mouth, should you answer promptly and try to manage the food at the same time?

A. No. Wait until the food has been swallowed. Say, "I'm sorry," then answer the question. This is much better than trying to talk with food in the mouth.

Q. Is it correct to write a note of condolence on the typewriter?

A. This is not considered acceptable. It indicates much more thoughtfulness and sympathy to write such a note by hand.

Q. When filling the water glasses at the dinner table, how much water should be poured into each glass?

A. The glass should be three-fourths full, never more.

Q. If the bride is a widow, how should her name be written on the invitation?

A. In the name of her late husband and worded the same as the exception that her name, "Mary Elizabeth Smith" name should read, "Mary son Smith."

Q. Should a girl check her hair upon entering a nightclub?

A. This is optional. She either check it, or fold her hair, as she wishes.

Q. For what, besides eating breads, can the small knives be used?

A. These should be used for butter, jelly and cheese.

Q. Is it proper for a girl to give her fiancé an engagement gift?

A. This is optional. In most cases the ring of the girl is the only engagement gift exchanged.

Another $100 item is a cherry wood drop leaf table, which seats six with leaves up. This and several other fine examples of the owner's prowess as a furniture re-finisher are displayed in the various rooms. All cost from about $75 to $150.

Among the shelves full of china and glass ware is a blue cameo-type pitcher, which holds about two quarts and costs $15. And while you're poking among these items, perhaps Mrs. Carr will show you some of her own prize possessions in cut glass, which she says, is becoming very rare.

Carr, who has been in the antique business since he finished school in the early 1900's is obviously devoted to his work. His furniture and its history brings to his face, in the telling, a smile of enjoyment - a joy in accomplishment.

His two most valuable pieces are not for sale.

One is a Queen Anne table, made about 1600, which is valued at around $2000 if you can go by the last offer presented to its owner.

The other is a chair made about the same time.

Both of these will be placed in the authentic early American kitchen which Carr hopes to have completed sometime next winter.

This real museum room will be built by hand of rough hewn lumber, painstakingly cut and shaped by Carr. The furnishings and appointments will be authentic to the last detail - and when completed the kitchen will be one of a kind, this project having been attempted only a few times in this country, but under different circumstances.

Another unpriced acquisition by the antique dealer is a painting which hangs in the lobby of his home.

"I wish I could find someone who could tell me more about it," he said.

"I bought it because I liked it.
And it was one of the things that went through the hurricane. It still has scars."

The painting, a portrait of a young girl with dark, latin features, is done in soft browns, greens and blues. She wears what might be called a gypsy costume and a great deal of jewelry.

"The only thing I know for sure about my picture is that it's more than 100 years old," said Carr.

As we looked about, a couple traveling to Florida stopped by, having come the distance from the highway to Clermont out of their way to see the Carr place they had heard so much about in their antique hobbying.

With Carr's aid, they had a good time seeing his wares - and as they left, they voiced their plans to return on their homeward trip.

"We'll be back in a few weeks,"
they said.

And they probably will.

as Chip, when he was interviewed recently. "That Baby Hotel was too confining and very boring."

Chip was talking about the baby he spent the first twenty days of his young life. He came, for the first time, to his country home

He will commute during the month of August and go back after the green trout on the week ends.

The recent storm beat up Buddy Evans' pretty little Cris-Craft boat so Buddy has to go to work on it.

While the Harry Kellehers are in Europe, Jackeen, their daughter is having guests at their Jordan River home. Mr. and Mrs. D. A.
Short having been visitors for several weeks. Leigh Chambers of Fort Lauderdale, Florida, has just arrived and Linda Green came over from New Orleans. Betsy Ewing, also of New Orleans has been a guest and will be here for a week or so. By the way, Jack-een did some very fine work as a councillor at Camp Onward this past month. Now, she and her guests are making good use of their home swimming pool.

Right next to the Kellehers are the Leon Irwin family. Mrs. Aus-brey Bartlett, Lummie's mother is visiting them at this time. The two boys, Leon, III, and John have had many guests, the most recent being, George Pratt, III, King Milling, and Pierce and Harriet Hurley, all of New Orleans. They are all good swimmers so the swimming pool was the center of their vacation.

SENIORITY EXPERIENCE

"In the Senate, seniority and experience count for everything. I am 14th now among 96 senators. This seniority is an investment by Mississippi. It is high because you honored me by electing me senator when I was only 37 years old. I hold memberships on the vital agriculture and judiciary committees. These key positions will enable me to be of even greater service to Mississippi in the future. In my judgment, a record of achievement is more important than a platform of high-sounding promises."
